

SENATOR LODGE AND GENERAL WOOD GET DEGREES FROM PRINCETON U.

VERY POPULAR SCIENCE

Statistics show that there are almost as many self-made blondes as there are self-made men.

If water flowed uphill it would be very wet on the top of Pike's peak.

There are four women to every man in parts of New England, which accounts for the low salaries paid to school teachers in Vermont and Massachusetts.

The cost of cup custard could be cut 50 per cent if it could be made without eggs, but thousands of hens would be thrown out of work if a substitute were invented.

GENIUS KNOWS ITS LIMITATIONS

Wanted To Rent—By quiet, unobtrusive couple, plebians, three connecting rooms (preferably downstairs), furnished housekeeping, except bedding and linen; private or convenient bath; near an owl car line; man works at night. Not ambitious socially; not interested in reasons for taking roomers, prominent relatives, illustrious ancestors, or neighbors' affairs.—Adv. in Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial-Tribune.
